"A satisfying and remarkably lucid showcase...joyous." (The Birmingham News, Alabama)

Huw Lewis received formal training at the Royal College of Music in London and at Cambridge University and was awarded teaching and performing diplomas from the Royal Academy and the Royal College of Music as well as both diplomas of the Royal College of Organists. He received scholarships and fellowships at Cambridge University and the University of Michigan. In 1972, he came to the United States to study at the University of Michigan, earning Master's and Doctoral degrees in organ performance as a student of Robert Clark, Robert Glasgow, and Marilyn Mason.

His extensive performing career has taken him across the United States, and to Britain, Europe, and Russia. He has performed at numerous national and regional conventions of many professional organizations, including the Hymn Society of America, the Organ Historical Society, and the American Guild of Organists. Dr. Lewis was a featured soloist at the 1987 International Congress of Organists, and served on the panel of jurors of the 2003 Dallas International Organ Competition and the 2016 Sursa American Organ Competition at Ball State University, Indiana.

His playing has been broadcast over the radio and television in Europe, Britain, and the U.S. Huw Lewis has appeared as a soloist many times with orchestra and has participated in the world premieres of concertos by Alfred Fedak and Michael Daugherty. His performance of the Fedak concerto with the Grand Rapids Symphony in May 2016 helped to inaugurate the new Casavant organ at the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts at Hope College.

Dr. Lewis is Professor of Organ and College Organist at Hope College, Holland, Michigan and Director of Music at St. John's Episcopal Church, Detroit.

Huw Lewis is represented exclusively in North America by Phillip Truckenbrod Concert Artists, LLC.
